

As students, we have noticed a serious problem among several students which is school desertion. School desertion refers to the abandonment of studies by a student before they have completed their education.

There are different causes that can lead a student to drop out of their studies, such as economic problems, lack of motivation, academic difficulties, family problems, among others. School desertion can have serious consequences in the student's life, such as less opportunity to access well-paid jobs and greater vulnerability to poverty and social exclusion.

Therefore, the objective of the application will focus on providing help and support to students who currently have difficulties with their studies.

The identified users for the application would be:

- Students: those who need help and guidance to overcome difficulties and avoid dropping out of school.
- Teachers: who use the application to identify opportunities that students may have.
- Tutors: Those who use the application to identify students and provide assistance.
- Educational institutions: who can use the application as a tool for monitoring and evaluating school performance and the dropout rate of their students.
- Researchers or professionals in education: who can use the application to collect data and carry out studies on school dropout and the causes that generate it.

The objective of the system will be to provide the necessary help and tools to motivate and guide students who have problems with their studies, are considering abandoning them and do not have the help to access resources that benefit them as students.

Previously, similar systems have been developed that provide support and benefits to students, only the problem is that a large part of them do not know how to access these benefits or even know that they exist.

In order to innovate these similar systems, it seeks to offer students information about the various supports that they can benefit from and what would be the process to access them.

The motivation is the fact of wanting to drop out of school out of necessity, looking for better opportunities and not finding worthwhile reasons to continue studying. This is something that as students we have noticed and experienced during our studies. Also considering the answers that various students have given us and are considering abandoning their studies and those who have already stopped studying.

Therefore, this application would be relevant to show and motivate various students from various universities that dropping out of school is not the best option and that they would be missing out on several opportunities that they can take advantage of.
